The incident was still being investigated as of press time this week, but initial reports were that the driver of the car ran a stop sign causing the crash with the police vehicle. Teachers of the Year recognized at CCBOE meeting

by Linda Hodge, Editor

During the Coffee County Board of Education meeting held Thursday evening, Feb. 2, two teachers were recognized as the Coffee County School System's "Teacher of the Year" for the elementary and secondary levels.

Superintendent Kelly Cobb announced New Brockton Elementary School teacher Dawn Nolin as the Elementary Teacher of the Year for the school system, and she said Connie Nichols, a teacher at New Brockton Middle School, had been named the Secondary Teacher of the Year for the School System. Cobb read recommendation letter's written by peers of each that she said best described the why as to how each teacher received her honor.

Board member Sherry Eddins noted those were "very glowing reviews" for each teacher after Cobb concluded reading the letters. Each board member congratulated the teachers on the special honors.

Also, during the board meeting, Cobb presented each board member with a certificate and gift of appreciation in honor of School Board Member Month, which was celebrated in January.

Several personnel matters were approved by the board, including three teacher employment. Heartlee Sanders were approved as a teacher at New Brockton High School while Annsley Renfroe and Kerry Hussey both were approved as teachers at Kinston Elementary School.

Two certificated employee leave requests were approved. Tami Crosby was approved for catastrophic leave, effective Jan. 4, through March 4, tentatively, and Emily Roberts was approved for catastrophic leave, effective Jan. 30th until further notice.

As for classified personnel, the board approved catastrophic leave for Dana Jacobs, from Jan. 11th through Feb. 17th, tentatively. Also, the resignation of Jodene Jernigan as a bus driver for Coffee County Schools was approved, effective Jan. 9th.

The next regular meeting for the Coffee County Board of Education is set for Thursday, March 2, at 5:30 p.m.

Elba BOE members say teacher presentations show testing trends are moving in right direction

by Linda Hodge, Editor

This is Part 3 of a series of stories from the Tuesday, Jan. 17, Elba Board of Education meeting. This final part of the series focuses on the board reaction to teacher presentations from both the high school and elementary school on student testing and diagnostics.

After the high school and elementary school ACAP leadership teams completed their presentations Tuesday, Jan. 17, to Elba Board of Education members regarding student testing and plans for improvement, the overall reaction of the board was that things seem to be headed in the right direction.

"I look at the school as they all are my students," board member DeAnn Grantham said. "When the report cards came out...I looked at it as if this was my own daughter. I said, 'Oh no. We need to sit down and get a plan together because this is not how we want it to go.'"

She said that is basically the reaction she gave to superintendent Chris Moseley when they discussed the results.

"I said to him, 'Oh no. They weren't good; however, what are we going to do? How are we going to move forward because that is the only thing we can do,'" Grantham said. "That is how I wanted to take tonight and approach it."

For her, Grantham said the meeting was not an "explain yourself" thing for the teachers. Instead, she said she viewed it as a meeting between teachers and school leaders to discuss how the schools are moving forward.

SARCOA program on inflation set for Feb. 22nd at Elba Sr. Citizens Center will host an "Inflation Fighting Program" at the Elba Senior Citizens Center on Wednesday, Feb. 22, from 11:30 a.m. until 1 p.m.

The Elba Senior Center is located at 304 Factory Avenue, Elba.

Inflation is creating hardships for many. Every day, the cost of groceries, gasoline, prescription drugs, medical care and cable continues to rise.

There are programs for lower income older adults than can potentially add money back into one's wallet.

This program is open to anyone in the community. It is not limited to senior center participants.

"Make plans to come see what programs might be beneficial to you," said Elba Senior Center director Donna Falls.

Area Happenings

The Annual Cotton Expo is back for cotton producers in the Wiregrass and Tri-State area. It will be held Friday, Feb. 10, at the National Peanut Festival Fairgrounds, Dothan, Ala., from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. The expo will feature vendor booths as well as presentations from extension agents and specialists and industry professionals. A sponsored lunch will be provided. For more information, call (334) 693-2010.

A Feral Swine Control Workshop will be held Thursday, Feb. 23, at the Coffee County Farm Center in New Brockton, Ala., from 11:30 a.m. – 1 p.m. This will be a lunch and learn meeting. Come learn about the Alabama Feral Swine Control Program – what works and what doesn't in feral swine trapping and elimination, along with cost share opportunities offered by Soil Water Conservation. Lunch will be provided for all who register by calling the Coffee County Extension office at (334) 894-5596.

The Elba Lions Club will host its annual Pancake Breakfast fundraiser Saturday, March 4, from 6-10 a.m., at the National Security Group Conference Center. A donation of $5 per plate is requested. Dine-in or takeout.

"You all did great with your presentations," Grantham said to the group of teachers. "At the end of the day when I am sitting at city hall and someone says, 'Well, I saw the scores. Elba looks outstanding, don't they...' because I get that kind of stuff all the time. I need to have a response for that. I want my response to be in line with all of you."

Grantham thanked the teachers for their in-depth reports on the ACAP scores and the iReady diagnostic scores. She said it shows the hardwork of the teachers and student is all paying off because the trend is heading in the direction of the improvements the schools want to see.

"I know how important it is to have these kids in the school," she added. "We can call it a virtual learning day [when schools are out for whatever reason], but we all know they are not getting what they need that way. Some probably aren't even getting two hot meals a day out of school."

Grantham said she is personally aware of some of the situations the students live in. She said anyone can just ride around town and see it, but she said she also realizes the work the teachers are putting in to get things moving in the right direction.

"We are going to move forward together and work together," Grantham said.

Board vice president Johnny Senn echoed many of the same remarks made by Grantham.

"I took this real serious when they appointed me to this board," he said. "I put four kids through this school, and at the end of the day, I want to know that my child got a quality education."

Senn said he did his own research when the ACAP scores came out, and he said as he looked at all the numbers here and around the state, he was angry to begin with looking at Elba's results.

"This you all did tonight sure did open my eyes to see we are headed in the right direction," he said. "My goal from day one was to see this get better. I know test scores are a priority, and these iReady diagnostic

Why a new Alzheimer's drug is having a slow debut in the U. S. could be the $26,500 annual price tag, lack of health insurance acceptance and the fact it is only moderately effective, at best. Of course, those of us who have experienced a loved one with this illness will be glad to grasp at any straw that will slow the development of the Alzheimer's. We are confident that there will ultimately be better and cheaper drugs for this illness, but clearly not today.

The earthquake(s) in Syria and Turkey have hit a population that was already on its knees. Civil War in Syria, run-away inflation (90 to 100 percent) in Turkey and buildings that are old, old, old led to massive destruction, many deaths and many more homeless in freezing cold weather. Even with massive aid being promised from all around the world, it can't get there fast enough for those standing around in the freezing weather, with no shelter, little clothing and probably even less food . . . and loved ones to bury.

We are hardly through one election cycle and already we are getting endorsement letters for candidates in the next election. A bunch of judges in Alabama are up for re-election (or replacement in 2024) and their supporters are hitting the campaign trail. Each of us will be fired of politics long before this next election is over, especially with this early start of campaigning.

Mass shootings continue to occur all across America and often there is no clue as to what prompted the deadly event. Many, if not most, of us react by calling for "more gun control". Then we think such a move is virtually impossible . . . the bad guy will find a way to get a weapon. We are also reminded of something we read, related to a WWII event. "I saw a movie once where only the police and military have guns. It was called Schindler's List." — Unknown. It is the story of a man helping female Jewish victims of the Nazis in Germany. We don't want that in America, but something has to be done to stop the stupid killings.

The first week or so in February can be a roller coaster for Cuzin Lou Lou, and this year is no different. There are several "special" days that contribute to said roller coaster.

First, Lou Lou gets to celebrate another trip around the sun on her birthday each Feb. 2. Lou Lou enjoys celebrating "her day" each year because it is the one day of the year that Sister must be nice to her! Lou Lou knows that is a hard task for Sister, but she tends to do a good job of treating Lou Lou well on her day of birth.

The two laughed a bit this year because Lou Lou decided on her birthday to purchase a vehicle! She finally decided it was time to let Lou 2 return to her normal job of being the "fun" vehicle, and a daily ride joined the family. Lou Lou stayed in the Jeep family for this purchase, and she welcomed Lou 2's little brother, Renegade, to the gang.

On Feb. 6th, the Yonder Gang turns all focus to Little Bean as she celebrates a birthday too in February. This year, Little Bean turned 3-years-old.

Sister enjoys ragging Lou Lou by reminding her that in "dog years" that means Little Bean is 21 instead of just 3; but, Lou Lou refuses to listen to that hogwash! She insists that Little Bean is still "just a baby" at three-years-old.

As usual, Bean enjoyed being the center of attention on her birthday! She got lots of special treats, and even asked for a few more in between the celebrating. Of course, it is hard to say "no" to that sweet little face. So, she got extra spoiling on her big day.

Now, the hard day in February each year for the Yonder Gang is Feb. 8th as it is the anniversary of Mama's earthly death. While the gang rejoices in knowing Mama is happy in her eternal home, it is not easy on the gang when this date rolls around each year because it reminds them of their loss.

This year marked the 20th anniversary of Mama's death. It is hard to believe it has been 20 years since her death, but alas, the calendar insists it to be true.

With each passing year, Lou Lou only hopes that she had done well over the years in making choices and doing things that would have made Mama proud of her. There have certainly been plenty of times that she has wished that Mama was still here to provide her always-sensible advice.

Mama had one of the kindest souls that Lou Lou has ever encountered, and Lou Lou has spent the past 20 years trying to live up to the legacy that Mama left behind. She knows there have been days when she did not achieve that goal, but overall, Lou Lou hopes the wins have far outweighed the losses in that category.

The best advice Lou Lou knows to give anyone in losing a parent...love them while they are here as much as you possibly can. Say, "I love You" often, do things with them, and listen when they speak. There will be a day when you wish you had more chances no matter how well you did or didn't do it in the past.

Lou Lou's wish is that if Mama could see her, Sister, and Papa now that she would smile down on them and be proud of how they are living life and treating others.

Until next time...God Bless and Keep Smiling.

results should bleed over into the state testing. That is good because it shows we are going in the right direction."

Senn added that before the meeting, he did not realize Elba had such a mental health issue as was explained by the teachers. He said overall, he had learned that it was a totality of several things that attributed to the less than desired ACAP scores from last school year.

"We definitely do have some great teachers, and when you see me in the schools, it is not that I am there to see if you are doing your job," Senn said. "I am there because I want to know what is happening. I want to be able to help you. Education means a lot to me."

Senn said the board, administrators, teachers, all are there to make the schools better, and he said it is the job of the board to be there for the students and teachers...to help them.

"I applaud you for what you do," he said. "If you see me, it is because I am deeply interested in the education of our students. I believe once you get the elementary school wanting to achieve and believing they can achieve, it will bleed over into the high school."

Board member Kristy Astemborski said the work the teachers are doing to create growth is definitely working because it has made a world of difference for her child.

"The things you are doing to implement incentives, they are working," she said. "If see it in my own child, I just wanted you to know it is working."

Superintendent Moseley closed out the remarks by again thanking the teachers from each school for attending the board meeting and making the presentations.

"Not a single board member ever asked me to have you come explain yourselves," he said to the group. "I wasn't asking you to explain yourselves. I know what you do every day and what you are battling. I just wanted them to hear it from you all."

He said he felt it would sound better coming from those with their feet on the ground working in the trenches each day.

Moseley said the growth is not going to come by leaping over mountains all at once, but instead, he said it will be baby steps forward. He said the trends are showing those baby steps are happening, and growth is occurring.

"If we say we are going to fix it all right now, we are crazy and might as well quit," Moseley said. "We have to find our baby steps and work to move forward areas at a time. The trends show our students are going where they need to. I couldn't be more proud."

In a move to increase parent involvement, Elba Elementary School had a Parent Night event set for Tuesday, Feb. 7, from 5-6 p.m. During this time, 3rd and 5th graders were set to provide a combined musical performance.

Following the performance, parents had an opportunity to meet and talk with faculty and staff, visit their child's classroom, and learn ways to help improve their child's ACAP test scores and their overall school grades.

Recently the Coffee County Farmers Federation Women's Committee passed out the book, "I Love Strawberries!" by Shannon Anderson, to local education centers. The hope is that this book will enable children to see what farmers do to get their food to them. A lot of guys out there, Tink they're men
Because they act tough and talk rough
Real men know that wisdom
Is true strength,
Tat gentleness is a virtue...

A lot of guys brag, Real men don't have to.
Their actions speak louder than words.

A lot of guys blame,
Anyone and everything
For what doesn't go their way
Real men accept life's challenges
And use them to grow...

How do I know all this?
Because I've watched Hamm
And I've seen how a good man,
A real man, Leads a good life.

So many people are celebrating you today.
And I'm proud to be one of them...

Mend a Broken Heart Month

February can be a trying time for those who have experienced a loss. And while for most, February has other more symbolic meanings, it is also Mend a Broken Heart Month. In the spirit of mending broken hearts, here are a few ways to cope with the grief of a lost loved one.

For those who have experienced a recent loss, the prospect of going out and dating again can seem scary and even disrespectful to their lost partner. There are plenty of dating groups both community and online that specialize in helping widows and widowers find love again after a loss. These groups often provide both emotional support and physical activities to encourage those who are bereaved to mingle and grow together past their grief.

If your grief is still too recent, there are projects that can help ease the pain of loss. If your lost beloved had a favorite shirt or sweater that you don't mind parting with: try adding some pillow filler to the garment and sew up the sleeves and the neck. The completed pillow can now provide some comfort, as if your lost loved has never truly left.

If there was a cause you and your lost loved one supported together: try donating your time or energy to the same cause to honor their legacy. If there was not a cause you and your loved one shared, there are plenty of other causes that are doing great work during the month of February. In addition to Mend a Broken Heart Month, February is also Women's Heart Health Month. Those causes can be supported by donating blankets to those in need, winter coats to the homeless or donating time to visit the lonely in hospice care centers or local nursing homes and hospitals.

This February, take some time to try and mend a broken heart: be it yours or someone else's. Know you are not alone and things will improve.

CHURCH & LIFESTYLES

PASTOR'S CORNER

by Dwight Johnson, Pastor
Elba First Assembly of God

February has been called the month of love, because of Valentine's Day. Actually, every month, every week, every day should be a time when we express our love to others.

It's not that we don't say it. We just say it more often than we show it. Love is said more than shown. If "talk is cheap," then actions can be expensive. They take time, effort, and often money. But, just buying something on special days can be very convenient, also.

What we all need is consistent, daily, faithful, heartfelt expressions of love. We need someone to live love daily for us, and we for them.

What an example Jesus was, in both word and deed! In John 15:9-13, he tells us:

1. He has loved us even as his Father has loved him.
2. When we walk in obedience to him, we will remain in his love.
3. He commands (yes, commands) us to love one another in the same way that he loves us. (This is one of those "ouch" commandments, but still a commandment.)
4. There is no greater love than to lay down one's life for one's friends. That was exactly what Jesus did, for you and for me. His words were beautiful, and his actions were sacrificial.

As we come to Valentine's Day, let's not only speak love, but let's show love. Let's live love - for God and for others - every day!

In Honor of Black History Month - A Look at Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. The Diverse Church United

Dr. Martin Luther King's famous "I Have a Dream" speech rightly challenged the conscience of a country divided by racism. His vision for racial equality was rooted in his understanding of the scriptures. For King, the uneven terrain of Isaiah 40: 3-5 represented the decades of racial injustice that fueled and was fueled by segregation. King's dream wasn't wishful thinking or idle hope. He challenged his audience to participate in leveling "the mountain of despair." A nation changed its laws and began to repent of its racism as a result (with a way yet to go). King's dream of racial equality was preceded by John's vision of a multinational, multiethnic redeemed people of God who are unified in their praise to Him. Having read of that heavenly outcome, the question then becomes one of what we should be doing to bring it about. What are we doing to have a church on earth that is as unified in its diversity as the redeemed people of God in John's vision? - L.G.S.

The entire family joined together over the weekend to help our daughter Melanie celebrate her birthday, and while our baby grandson Cannon was more than content to drink from his bottle, Lawson took advantage of the occasion to order steak and shrimp. Whatever happened to the child's plate with chicken fingers and fries?

For what it is worth....

 The regular season came to an end last week and it was a successful season for the teams at Elba High as the Tigers posted a 16-13 record, the Lady Tigers posted a 20-6 record and the JV Tigers rolled to an 18-2 record. The Tigers had an up and down season of streaks and were not as successful as they had hoped in area play, but posted ten wins over 2A teams and three wins over 3A teams, which wasn't bad for a 1A team that started only one senior and had not posted a winning record in four years. The Lady Tigers were also a very young team that relied on an aggressive defense and a high-scoring sophomore to lead the way, and once again proved that they are a power that is here to stay. The JV Tigers barely had enough players to even field a team, but came together and rolled to one of its best records ever and set the tone for what should be years of winning. Yep, it was a great year to cheer for the Tigers and Lady Tigers!

 Looking around the area, it was also a solid year for all the teams in the coverage area. In boy's play, Brantley remained a 1A power and as always has its eyes set on bringing home a state title, while Kinston took a giant step forward and had its best team in years, New Brockton continued its trek back to respectability and posted some big wins, and Zion Chapel again won more than its share of games and made it clear the Rebels are here to stay. Over with the girls, New Brockton snapped a long losing streak and emerged into a solid team with high goals for the future, while Zion Chapel picked up some wins late in the season and took a big step toward a return to being a winning program. Kinston improved every time it took the court and by the end of the regular season was a team to watch, and Brantley wasn't quite as good as in years past, but won more than its share of games and made the fans in green and white proud. While basketball may not be quite as strong as it was years back, it is still a sport the players, coaches and fans enjoy, and the season was one they will all remember.

 It's hard to believe, but the high school baseball and softball seasons will start in just a week and that means it is time to pull out the folding chairs and get outside. While it is obviously way too early to make predictions, it looks like Elba will be competitive and have a solid shot at a trip to the post-season, while New Brockton has established itself as solid 3A club that always looks to make the playoffs, Kinston has almost everyone back from a year ago and should be solid, Zion Chapel is convinced it can beat anybody on its schedule after a couple of successful years, and Brantley should be just as good as always. On the softball field, Elba will be young, but has high hopes for a winning season, while New Brockton is a proven winner and should make some noise, Kinston has a new coach and high hopes of being big winners, Zion Chapel always plays hard and plays to win, and Brantley is anxious to get back on the field and try to add to its state title collection. Fresh air, sunshine and the sounds of bats hitting balls...can't beat it!

 In closing.... The University of Alabama released its financial figures from its athletic department last week and once again there is no doubt the athletic department at the university is a big, big business. The department took in a record $214.4 million, and while spending went up by over $34 million, at the end of the day there was still a profit $18.5 million. The biggest money maker, as always, was football, which brought in $130.9 million in revenue and showed a profit of $52.3 million, and made it possible to field many other non-profit sports. The revenue figures included $44.2 million from ticket sales, $52.3 million from contributions, $53.6 million from media rights and $15.1 million in royalties from licensing. The biggest expenditures were $34.2 million to support staff, $18.9 million to student aid, $35.1 million in coaching salaries and $22.3 million to dent service. Looks like it takes a lot of people and money to make the 'Tide Roll.'

Improve record to 16-13

Elba Tigers claw Rebels 73-65

The Elba Tigers closed out the regular season last week with a pair of road games and bounced back from an early-week 72-37 loss to Brantley to outscore Zion Chapel 73-65 as they finished the regular season campaign with a 16-13 record.

Following is a recap of last week's action:

Brantley 72 Elba 37

The Elba Tigers saw an early 12-5 lead vanish quickly in a 72-37 area loss to the Brantley Bulldogs.

Elba showed life early in the third quarter with four quick points and got as close as 39-26 with 5:24 left in the quarter on a basket by Alvin Henderson. However, Brantley never lost command and outscored the Tigers 17-3 in the final stanza to hand Elba the lopsided 72-37 defeat.

Elba 73 Zion Chapel 65

The Elba Tigers used a 15-0 first quarter run to erase an early 6-0 deficit and turned back a number of Zion Chapel rallies to outscore the Rebels 73-65.

Zion Chapel gave a

Javante Griggs scored 16 points and Kalil Magwood added 12 to lead Elba, while also scoring for the Tigers were Emmanuel Cooks 7, Brady Johnson 6 and Jordan Hammonds 1.

large senior night crowd something to cheer about early as the Rebels raced out to a quick 6-0 lead. However, Elba's Alvin Henderson scored 7 points and Ty Sieving and Brayden Johnson both connected on three-pointers for the Tigers during a 15-0 run as the Tigers rallied to carry a 15-6 lead into the second stanza. Jacob Chestnut got hot from behind the arc in the second quarter as he drained four three-pointers and scored a total of 16 points as the Rebels pulled within 34-30 at the half, while Slade Grantham scored 10 points in the third quarter and Chestnut added two more three-pointers to cut the Tigers lead to 50-48 heading into the fourth quarter. The pace of the game never slowed in the final stanza, and while Chestnut was a perfect 7 of 7 from the free-throw line in the quarter, Elba's Alvin Henderson scored seven points and the Tigers hit on 5 of 9 free throws to hold on and claim the wild 73-65 road win.

Alvin Henderson scored 18 points to lead Elba, while also scoring for the Tigers were JT Coleman 13, Brayden Adkins 12, Cayden Adkins 12, Cameron Gray 6, Ty Sieving 6, Jacob Watkins 4 and Jamal Siler 2.

Two Zion Chapel students sign their 'letter of intent' to play football at Faulkner University

Two Zion Chapel students revealed their plans last week to play football at the next level by signing letters of intent with the Faulkner University Eagles.

On Wednesday, Feb. 1, Zion Chapel's Hayden Walden and Shaun Smith each signed letters of intent indicating they plan to continue their football careers at the collegiate level.

Walden was an offensive lineman for the ZC Rebels. At 6'3" and 285 pounds, ZC head football coach Cody Keene said he was a multi-year starter for the Rebels and played both tackle and guard.

During his senior season, Keene said Walden graded out at 85.4 percent on his assignments with 10 pancakes and eight knockdowns.

Smith was an inside linebacker for the Rebels defense. At 5'11" and 210 pounds, Keene said he had a total of 54 tackles with two for losses. Also on the season, he accounted for 3.5 sacks, one forced fumble and one blocked kick.

Smith also played on the offensive line, and Keene said he graded at 89.5 percent with nine pancakes and two knockdowns.

Walden and Smith were joined by their family last Wednesday for the signing ceremony held at Zion Chapel School.

Faulkner University is located in Montgomery, Ala. The Eagles play football as part of the Mid-South Conference in the NAIA division.
